ECE 291
Leadership in Early Childhood Programs

I learned that I have a place to go to where I can interact with others who have a passion for children as I do. I learned that there are many ways to enrich preschool programs and directing abilities.

Anybody can be a leader. We are right feeling empowered by good leadership.

I learned my personality type. I learned a lot about myself and my coworker. How easy it was to make a workshop. I learned a lot about myself and my ability to believe in my knowledge and I really do know it.

Anybody can be a leader no matter what position you hold and even being a parent. Communication and teamwork is so important to carry a vision and change out. Change is good.

My personality type, what it means to me and to others. How to be a true leader, what leadership really is, what it means to me and how I will use my leadership skills!

My personality type and how it applies to my working and leadership values. How the attitudes of employees can affect the success of an organization.

How to be an effective leader with both good leadership and management skills. Now I just have to implement it! How to put together a workshop project.

The leadership matrix is a wonderfully clear explanation and tool. I found out that I wasn’t crazy in past managerial experiences.

That a leader can be indirect as well as direct. I feel the indirect leader has a more personal contact with people and can lead in a different style.

I have had the chance through this class to know the ways I can expand myself as a leader and not just be a follower. The material will be used and hopefully passed on to the others in my center.

I gained some very important knowledge about myself. Intrapersonal intelligence is my weakest intelligence. I also gained a lot of insight on why people do things that I just couldn’t imagine why anyone would do them.
